Between the Wings

Many of the actors appearing in tonight's performance are recent graduates of a three week theatre workshop sponsored earlier this summer by SLT. For four hours a day, five days a week, participants were exposed to the fundamentals of the dramatic arts - this including not only voice and improvisation, as one might expect, but stagecraft as well: lighting, flat construction, costume design, and so on.

The workshop and Young People's Theatre (of which, by the way, Cinderella is a product) are both results of an effort to more actively cultivate the talents of our younger citizenry.

way, Cinderella is a product) are both results of an effort to more actively cultivate the talents of our younger citizenry. Acting on the belief that those talents represent a considerable store of untapped creative potential, SLT unveiled the Young People's Theatre project, out of which grew the workshop, out of which (to a degree) grew the play. Audition response to YPT has been just short of phenomenal, and, if this initial success is any indication, we've every reason to expect that the best is, to coin a phrase, yet to come.
